DETAILED ACTION

The final rejection in paper number 12 has been withdrawn. However, in view of further search the new final rejection has been made.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kenney (U.S. Pat. 6020250) in view of Kagaya et al. (U.S. Pat. 5523593).

Kenney discloses a semiconductor device (fig. 5c, column 14, lines 50 et seq.) comprising:

a semiconductor body defining a trench 170 (fig. 3d) having a bottom and sidewalls and having an upper portion and a lower portions;

the lower portion of the isolation trench being at least filled with an electrically conductive material 208a that has side wall portion which are at least partly separate from the sidewalls of the lower portion of the trench by a first electrical insulator 176 (column 14, lines 1-2), the electrical conductive material having a lower portion that is in electrical contact with the semiconductor body at the bottom of the trench; and the upper portion of the isolation trench being filled with a second electrical insulator 210.

Kenny fails to disclose the trench enclosing an area of the semiconductor body with contains a semiconductor structure.

Kagaya et al. disclose a semiconductor device (cover fig., abstract) comprising: a trench 9 enclosing an area of the semiconductor body which contains a semiconductor structure which is to be electrically isolated from other semiconductor structures that are also contained within the semiconductor body but which are not located within the enclosed area to reduce low frequency oscillation and provide a compound semiconductor IC which is most suitable for a superspeed operation. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the device of Kenny to reduce low frequency oscillation and provide a compound semiconductor IC which is most suitable for a superspeed operation, as shown by Kagaya et al.

- Regarding claim 2, Kenney discloses the first insulator 176 is silicon dioxide (column 12, lines 17-18) and it would have been obvious matter of design choice to provide the electrically conductive material is doped polysilicon and the second insulator is silicon dioxide.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 2814
